Piano Celebration Week Directors

WELCOME

DR. SANGMI LIM & DR. DINO MULIĆ

Dear friends,

Welcome to the eighth annual Piano Celebration! We invite you to join us for ten days of great music. Don't miss the opportunity to see the latest Cliburn Documentary Crescendo, to enjoy the educational program Cliburn in the Classroom What Makes a Hero?, to hear our artist-in-residence Catalin Dima, and to support our rising pianists performing in four marathon recitals. There will be something for everyone from music from movies to a piano/percussion quartet recital. All events are open to the public and free of charge.

This year, Piano Celebration Week features guest artists, faculty, students, and over 500 pre-college and college pianists from the Coastal Bend area, Houston, and Laredo in 27 scheduled events that run from March 21 to March 30. This festival brings together students and parents, independent music teachers, local music teacher associations and ensembles, area businesses, local government, national organizations, universities, professionals, music enthusiasts, and more to support music participation and collaboration and celebrate the mastery and artistry of piano performance. This festival is entirely in-person, and all the events will take place at the Performing Arts Center on the campus of Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi.

We want to express our gratitude to President Kelly M. Miller, SAMC Director Diana Sipes, and Mary Thornton who is the Chair of the Music Department, for their endless support, and to the Performing Arts Center Interim Director Don Luna, and his team, for hosting the festival. Thank you to the MARCOM team, for promoting the festival and campaign; Deborah Avery for administrative work; Andrea Hempstead, for visual identity and design; and Christina Stuart and Kimberly Becerra, for helping us with the grant applications. Thank you to Ben Zaragosa, Gary Blum, and Knightstorm Productions, for capturing and recording our events. Thank you to all the artists, for sharing their great artistry. Thank you to all the teachers, for preparing their students to participate in our marathon concerts. Thank you to the parents of our student-performers, for supporting your children and investing in their music education. A special thanks to our key partners and the owners of The Piano Gallery, Debra and Matt Perez, for providing the best pianos for our events; the Yamaha Corporation of America and the Music Teachers National Association, for supporting our community to engage in music making; and the Corpus Christi Music Teachers Association, for being a great partner. Thank you to KEDT-FM for promoting the festival. Thank you to the City of Corpus Christi's Arts & Cultural Commission for recognizing the importance of the festival and providing us with sufficient funds. Thank you to the Dobson and the Khan Families for sponsoring our educational programs. Thank you to all those organizations and individuals, whose extraordinary support makes our festival possible. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts for helping us organize this festival. We look forward to sharing this celebratory season with you!

Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi
President and CEO

As President of Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi, it is my privilege to welcome you to the eighth annual Piano Celebration Week, one of the many programs and events we offer as part of our long-standing commitment to enriching the cultural vibrancy of our community. We are delighted to host student, amateur and professional pianists at our Island university this week for a unique opportunity to perform and learn. We invite you to explore our world class facilities and beautiful campus while you enjoy the free concerts, master classes, and performances by exceptional musicians.

At TAMU-CC, we recognize that education in the arts plays a vital role in fostering well-rounded students. The arts enhance self-expression, self-awareness, communication skills, collaboration, and civic engagement. Cultivating creativity and scholarship in the arts is a key part of our mission, and Piano Celebration Week is a perfect example of how we achieve this goal. We take great pride in the exceptional work happening at our School of Arts, Media, & Communication from our internationally renowned faculty to the talented Islander artists and musicians. Both groups are dedicated to making their Islander impact throughout Coastal Bend and beyond.

Thank you for supporting the work of our faculty, staff, and students through your participation as performers, educators, audience members, and donors. We are thrilled to share in the joy of music with you.

DR. DIANA SIPES

School of Arts, Media, & Communication Director

As Director of the School of Arts, Media, & Communication (SAMC) at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi, I am delighted to welcome you to the eighth annual Piano Celebration Week. This year's celebration is bigger than ever! Over the course of ten days, you will find a wide variety of experiences present in 27 piano concerts and events, including evening recitals, marathon concerts, Cliburn in the Classroom experiences, masterclasses, and documentary screenings. What an incredible opportunity for young pianists to perform in our beautiful Performing Arts Center! The inspiring evening concerts and educational events are a gift to community members in the Coastal Bend and beyond, all free and open to the public. A special thank you to TAMU-CC's own Associate Professor of Piano, Dr. Dino Mulić, and Collaborative Pianist, Dr. Sangmi Lim, for coordinating this massive series of events as well as for their masterful performances not only this week but throughout the year.

With the groundbreaking of the new Arts and Media Building in May 2024 on our campus along with the presence of SAMC as a newly independent school, we are in an exciting phase of arts expansion on the Island. The evolution of the music, theatre, dance, media, art, graphic design, and communication programs over the last couple of decades is undeniable, and this new building promises even better educational and performance experiences for the performers and audience members. The arts fill so many needs in our lives, providing beauty, comfort, and inspiration – life would be empty, indeed, without the creative arts. I encourage you to consider supporting one or more arts initiatives on our campus. You can learn more about SAMC programs and giving opportunities by visiting us at www.tamucc.edu/samc.

To view upcoming SAMC events, please view this page at www.tamucc.edu/samc/assets/documents/samc-events-calendar.pdf. I hope you enjoy this special time with us on the Island for Piano Celebration Week, and I trust that I will see you again at many future arts events.

The Texas A&M University-Corpus Department of Music welcomes you to the eighth annual Piano Celebration Week! We are so glad you are here to join us in celebrating all things piano. With dynamic performances from students and professionals alike, this festival continues to contribute to the musical fabric of our community. I'd especially like to mention our own Dr. Dino Mulić and Dr. Sangmi Lim, who regularly grace our stages with their musicianship and talent. Their dedication to the work that goes into a festival like this is very much appreciated.

Following up on my welcome letter from last year, evidence of the construction phase of the new Arts & Media building abounds. Do take a look at the construction site as you cross the parking lot to the Performing Arts Center. The new space is so exciting, and we continue to work on fundraising for the piano equipment for the new building. We are so pleased that the department has been gifted funds for a new Bösendorfer Concert Grand for the upcoming recital hall, and we look to raise additional funds to outfit our rehearsal spaces, studios, and practice rooms with the very best in piano technology. If you are interested in helping with this project, which will provide the very best of piano sound to our students and community, please feel free to reach out to me directly.

Piano Celebration Week remains a cultural mainstay of the Coastal Bend, and the Department of Music at TAMU-CC hosts a plethora of musical events on and off our campus. We offer dozens of free concerts every year and I extend an open invitation to you to join us. If you visit music.tamucc.edu you will find a link to our activities calendar. Please look around the website, learn more about us, and take part in all we have to offer! Welcome to all of the performers participating this week, and to all of you here to enjoy the music-making. Again, a special shout out to our youngest performers, their families, and teachers. We are delighted to share our stage and the gift of music with you!

Welcome to the Texas A&M-Corpus Christi Performing Arts Center (PAC). Along with the other sponsors of Piano Celebration Week, we are proud to host this remarkable event in its eighth year and are pleased you are enjoying wonderful music making over a period of ten days.

The PAC and its staff always look forward to Piano Celebration week as we get to see so many new people – and returning friends – who are clearly excited about the week’s highlights! Whether you’re a performer, parent, curious audience member, student, friend, or other family member, we see on everyone’s faces how much this opportunity to perform as part of Piano Celebration Week at the PAC means to them.

We know that not only will you see tremendous performances and attend multiple master classes, but you’ll understand how much the region needs events like Piano Celebration Week to add cultural vitality to the region. Events like this contribute to the educational, social, emotional, and economic health of our city.

In addition to supporting Piano Celebration Week, the Arts and Cultural Commission supports numerous other activities that take place at the PAC, including the Furgason BRAVO! Series, the Corpus Christi Chorale, the Corpus Christi Symphony Orchestra, and the Festival de Mariachi en la Isla. The Mariachi Festival this year is April 2-6, with workshops, vendors, discussions, and performances by area schools’ mariachi groups and professional ensembles.

The PAC is much more than just a building. It’s a place where we celebrate the arts, make new friends, and contribute in positive ways to the cultural, educational, and social fabric of the university and Corpus Christi. I hope that in the coming months, you continue to return to the PAC and other venues throughout the city, with new-found inspiration and a feeling of community. In the meantime, please enjoy all the tremendous activities of Piano Celebration Week and join us in celebrating the talent found in the Coastal Bend.

On behalf of Yamaha Corporation of America, it is our great pleasure to welcome you all to the eighth annual Piano Celebration Week hosted by Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi.

Piano Celebration Week is among my favorite events that we are able sponsor at Yamaha. There are few events that bring such a large group of pianists together and celebrate such a wide breadth of musical styles performed by performers of all ages and backgrounds. I want to wish you all luck with your performances and enjoy this unique opportunity to collaborate with so many of your colleagues.

This is a truly special year for us at Yamaha as we are able to feature the new CFX22 Concert Grand Piano for the first time at this festival. The Piano Gallery of Corpus Christi has long been a partner for this event and it is only through their generous support that we are able to make this possible. I hope you all enjoy the instrument!

A huge thank you and congratulations to Dr. Dino Mulić, Dr. Sangmi Lim, and the entire team at TAMU-CC for their dedication to making this festival a success.

The Corpus Christi Music Teachers Association (CCMTA) welcomes you to the eighth annual Piano Celebration Week at the magnificent Performing Arts Center at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi! Music has the amazing ability to bring us together, and the Piano Celebration Week provides a beautiful venue for over 450 of our students, from beginners to seasoned students, to perform on a grand stage.

Founded in 1951, the CCMTA provides a place for local music teachers to share ideas, teaching methods, and common goals while giving opportunities for students to grow in their studies and fine tune their skills through various performances and learning activities. The CCMTA, a 501(c)(3) organization affiliated with the Texas Music Teachers Association (TMTA) and Music Teachers National Association (MTNA), is dedicated to improving music education in our community. Students of the thirty-nine members participate in activities such as an annual Hymn Festival, Holiday Recital, and Parrie James Festival, which focuses on sonatas and sonatas from major composers. In affiliation with the TMTA, which has almost 2,000 members, and MTNA, activities include Student Affiliate Recitals, Fall and Spring Theory Examinations, World of Music Exams, the Original Composition Contest, the Publication Essay Contest, and the Preparatory Performance Contest culminating in a state convention in June. Please visit our website at www.corpuschristimta.org for more information. Piano lessons are a gift for a lifetime!

Our community is rich in culture and music. Dr. Dino Mulić and Dr. Sangmi Lim have blessed us with an amazing opportunity for students, families, and professionals to celebrate the piano in a community-wide setting. Thank you for being a part of it!

About the Program

It’s a bird! It’s a plane! It’s a pianist?! A musical conversation about heroes, from caped comic book characters to heroes we meet in everyday life; told through the lens of how Van Cliburn used the superpower of music to connect people around the world.

Van Cliburn was a celebrated American pianist who helped shape international relationships, build community, and inspire future generations through his music. Van’s mother was a pianist and music teacher. As a baby, he listened to her lessons and heard the pieces she taught every day. At only 3 years old, he decided to sit at the piano and play the music he’d heard all his life—and to her surprise, he had it memorized, without ever having a lesson himself! Recognizing this unusual talent, his mother immediately began to teach him. Van won his first competition nine years later; the prize was to make his solo debut with the Houston Symphony. At 17, Van left home for New York City, where he studied at The Juilliard School with the most important piano teacher of the time, Rosina Lhevinne. She was a native of Russia, and under her care, he built a growing reputation as an artist. She taught him many inspiring lessons about the piano, but also about caring for your neighbor and community and having a generous spirit. This is important because, at the time, the relationship between the United States and Russia was very tense. Our countries were locked in a kind of war called the “Cold War.” It was not fought with soldiers and tanks, but with culture and politics. It was all about being the first and best at everything. In 1957, Russia launched the first satellite, Sputnik, into space. This challenged the idea of the United States as the world leader in science and lowered American morale. Russia then founded an international music competition—the Tchaikovsky Piano Competition—to prove it was also the best in culture. Ms. Lhevinne encouraged Van to enter the competition. Though it seemed an impossible task, he traveled to Russia and took with him all of the lessons he had learned from his teacher. He won not only the competition, but the hearts of the Russian people. Van proved that music could promote understanding, ease tensions, and even form unlikely friendships. Van Cliburn returned to the United States a celebrated and beloved hero. New York City threw him a ticker tape parade—the only one in history to be given to a musician! His recording of the piece that led him to victory was the first classical recording to go platinum and was the best-selling album for more than 10 years. His victory made him a source of pride for every American and cemented his enduring legacy for many generations to come.

CLIBURN IN THE CLASSROOM

What Makes a Hero?

THANK YOU to the Dobson and the Khan Families for sponsoring the Cliburn in the Classroom educational program.

Pianist Daria Kiseleva debuted with the orchestra at age 10. She has since won top prizes at some of the world's most renowned music competitions and performed at famous concert halls such as Carnegie Hall in New York and the Salle Cortot in Paris. She has brought her music to Europe, North America, and South America, and looks forward to visiting even more continents. Born in Russia, Daria started piano lessons at the age of 4 and graduated from Moscow State Gnesin College and Moscow Tchaikovsky Conservatory. In 2014, she moved to Fort Worth to pursue an artist diploma and Doctor of Musical Arts at TCU. She also joins Cliburn in the Classroom for her first season as a program pianist. Apart from music, Daria loves ballet. She danced throughout childhood and now shares that joy with her own daughter. She also can't live without trips to the mountains or good coffee!

About the Program

It’s a bird! It’s a plane! It’s a pianist?! A musical conversation about heroes, from caped comic book characters to heroes we meet in everyday life; told through the lens of how Van Cliburn used the superpower of music to connect people around the world.

Van Cliburn was a celebrated American pianist who helped shape international relationships, build community, and inspire future generations through his music. Van’s mother was a pianist and music teacher. As a baby, he listened to her lessons and heard the pieces she taught every day. At only 3 years old, he decided to sit at the piano and play the music he’d heard all his life—and to her surprise, he had it memorized, without ever having a lesson himself! Recognizing this unusual talent, his mother immediately began to teach him. Van won his first competition nine years later; the prize was to make his solo debut with the Houston Symphony. At 17, Van left home for New York City, where he studied at The Juilliard School with the most important piano teacher of the time, Rosina Lhevinne. She was a native of Russia, and under her care, he built a growing reputation as an artist. She taught him many inspiring lessons about the piano, but also about caring for your neighbor and community and having a generous spirit. This is important because, at the time, the relationship between the United States and Russia was very tense. Our countries were locked in a kind of war called the “Cold War.” It was not fought with soldiers and tanks, but with culture and politics. It was all about being the first and best at everything. In 1957, Russia launched the first satellite, Sputnik, into space. This challenged the idea of the United States as the world leader in science and lowered American morale. Russia then founded an international music competition—the Tchaikovsky Piano Competition—to prove it was also the best in culture. Ms. Lhevinne encouraged Van to enter the competition. Though it seemed an impossible task, he traveled to Russia and took with him all of the lessons he had learned from his teacher. He won not only the competition, but the hearts of the Russian people. Van proved that music could promote understanding, ease tensions, and even form unlikely friendships. Van Cliburn returned to the United States a celebrated and beloved hero. New York City threw him a ticker tape parade—the only one in history to be given to a musician! His recording of the piece that led him to victory was the first classical recording to go platinum and was the best-selling album for more than 10 years. His victory made him a source of pride for every American and cemented his enduring legacy for many generations to come.

Each year at Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi, Piano Celebration Week provides opportunities for pianists of all ages and abilities to join us in celebrating piano music and artistry. In addition to experiencing performances given by world class pianists and the opportunity to participate in educational master classes, Piano Celebration Week serves a cultural need in the Coastal Bend by offering pianists at every level the unique and confidence-building experience of performing on stage at the H-E-B Performance Hall in the Performing Arts Center at TAMU-CC. Additionally, this festival positions Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi and the City of Corpus Christi as a destination for musicians seeking to study at the university level by showcasing not only the beauty of our campus and the city, but also the dedication of our faculty and students to sharing the benefits of music education with the community.

Piano Celebration Week is made possible through community support and modest registration fees for participants. All concerts are free and open to public audiences. Support from the TAMU-CC Department of Music, Corpus Christi Music Teachers Association, the City of Corpus Christi's City Arts Grant program, Yamaha Corporation, the Piano Gallery, and other generous donors support artist fees and lodging, promotional materials, audio and video production costs, and other expenses necessary to providing a rich, cultural experience for student participants and guests alike. Donors will be recognized in the event program booklet.
